The opposition did not even allude to Mr. Lathrop, the new Minister to Russia, as "a copperhead." Were the bloody shirt editors asleep.

SECRETARY WHITNEY and wife yesterday attended the funeral services of the Hon. Nathan Perry Payne at Cleveland. Mr. Payne was the son of Senator Payne, of Ohio, and the brother of Mrs. Whitney.

It is now reported that Hon. Bayless Hanna will not go to Persia. The Argentine mission has been substituted. The organs exhausted themselves in abusing him in connection with the former country. It will take them a day or two to read up on the Argentine Republic.

The Yale people would not agree to any disappointment concerning the address promised them by the Vice President, and he has been obliged to use the few days at Atlantic City which he had purposed for recreation to preparing the Yale address. It will be delivered in about three weeks.

Here is a fine story that comes over the wires from Atlanta, Ga., dated May 12:

Dr. J. W. Jones, Secretary of the Southern Historical Society, lectured here to night, and made the statement that if Stonewall Jackson had been in command of the Confederates at Gettysburg a certain leading General would have been shot on the field. "Do you refer to Longstreet?" he was asked afterward. "Yes," he replied, "do."

This would have been a great loss to the Republican party to have killed a man who afterward evolved into such a magnificent specimen of stalwart Republicanism.

DAVID DUDLEY FIELD says that the use of superfluous words costs the people of New York $100,000 per annum. For recording deeds and mortgages, Mr. Field said, ten cents per 100 words were paid. There were recorded in New York during one month 688 deeds and 788 mortgages. "If my code had been adopted," said Mr. Field, "the people would have saved $301 on the deeds, and $944 on the mortgages, a saving of over $1,500 per month to the people. The people of the State pay over $100,000 per year for superfluous words."

INDIANA threatens to supplement the train robbery disgrace by lynching the supposed robber, she is afraid to let the accused have a show in court, probably for fear she may acquire that "Missouri reputation," which is so much dreaded in Indianapolis—St. Louis Republican.

Our esteemed Missouri contemporary should go slow in charging that "Indiana threatens" the lynching of the express robber. This means, if it means anything, that our entire people are in favor of such summary proceedings. Our people are quite as law abiding as those of any other State. Mr. Baine intimated that he could not get justice in an Indiana court, run as it was by his own political friends, but then we never thought he believed what he said. He merely wanted to get easily out of a bad scrape.

REPRESENTATIVE men from New Mexico now in Washington protest against Chief Justice Axtell holding his position there a day longer. It is said that he is willing to resign, but they claim that he ought not to have been allowed to hold his seat a day after the Democratic inauguration, since he has covered his ermine with corruption from skirt to collar. "He is the most offensive partisan in New Mexico, and that is saying a good deal," says Colonel Anthony Joseph, the Territorial delegate. "Although holding the highest and most sacred trust in the Territory, he has violated every rule of right and decency. He was Governor some years ago, but acted so badly that President Grant removed him. He incited our people to insurrection and internecine strife and published a proclamation advising assassination."

The residents of the Territory thought that they were rid of Axtell when President Grant removed him, but Mr. Hayes restored him. We suppose the organs would raise a dismal howl if he were removed, but all the same "turn him out."

There is one good move in the right direction reported from the Washington Agricultural Bureau. There has been established a department which will be devoted exclusively to dairy products. A correspondent who has been investigating the matter says that Professor Thomas Taylor, the microscopist of this department, has already made one very important discovery, which he believes will prove to be an absolute test to detect oleomargarine or any imitation of butter. He has made a great many experiments and thinks that he has demonstrated the fact beyond any possibility of doubt, that under the microscope butter particles always assume the form of a perfect globule, upon which is distinctly marked a St. Andrew's cross. He says every other fatty substance presents very different forms and has equally marked characteristics. Pure butter has been examined in all its possible forms, sweet, rancid, and melted, and the result has always been the same—a perfect globule with a St. Andrew's cross. The process is said to be so simple that a child, after one explanation, can always tell genuine butter. The experiments are to be submitted to other microscopists and scientists in the different branches of the Government service. Professor Taylor is much elated with his experiments and is confident that they have been sufficiently numerous to prevent the possibility of a mistake. Commissioner Colman is satisfied that this is an infallible means of detecting oleomargarine.

SOMETHING TO BLUSH OVER.

There never has been an administration in the history of the country in which so many gross blunders have been made, and in which it has been found necessary to retract so many statements. Nearly all the questionable appointments that have been made can be traced directly to bad advice and abuse of confidence. We advise Mr. Cleveland to subscribe for all the leading Republican newspapers of the country, and employ a careful and conscientious clerk to make for him such selections as should reach his eye. He will thus find a most reliable guide for his conduct as President, and he can rely implicitly upon finding in those selections only what will tend to the best interests of the whole country.—Indianapolis Journal.

Will our misguided neighbor enumerate the "many gross blunders" and the "so many steps" retraced? Will it cite one appointee of the administration whose character can be likened to any one of the many thieves who have been conspicuous figures in the Republican administrations of the last twenty years? Can it cite any ex-Confederate appointed by Mr. Cleveland who was so foul a fiend in the War of the Rebellion as the "guerrilla" Mosby, or one who was so potent a fighter against the Union as General Longstreet? Is the transfer of a named appointee from one mission to another a retracting? Has there been an administration within twenty-five years so non-partisan in spirit, so discriminating as to the rectitude of character of appointees?

The questions asked are suggestive in themselves of the partisan falsity of the charge made by the Journal. But when we come to its recommendation that the President read Republican organs to find "a most reliable guide," we blush over its brazenness. We are reminded of the caution of "Captain Bibb, the robber trim," to the honest Quaker on the palfrey brown, who was riding over "Horsely Down." For of all the consciousness lying that has ever disgraced the "fourth estate of the realm," the most notorious has been that of "the leading Republican newspapers of the country" within the last twelve months. For the President to concede their veracity would be to confess himself one of the most despicable vile villains that breathe, and that his presence in the White House is a national shame. The annals of journalism afford no parallel to the bare and groundless misrepresentations of the leading Republican prints against the candidates of the Democratic party in the late campaign. And to-day these same papers are as malevolently seeking to defame the Nation by their disparagement of the men at the head of its affairs and the American citizens the administration is sending as its representatives abroad. The "clean and hungry Cassius" spirit of the Republican press, not content to defame the administration at home, would bring the Government into disrepute abroad. It is reeking with the hellish spirit which seeks to ruin where it can not rule.

No; whatever other ills may befall the country, we pray that the administration may never dishonor it by taking "the leading Republican newspapers" as "a reliable guide." In that baleful event the leading ruler of the American Government would be no less unlovable a character than the "father of lies."

WITHOUT EVEN PRIZE-RING HONOR.

The circular letter of Postmaster General Vilas to the Democratic Congressmen is riling the organs. With the offices loving proclivity always characteristic of Republican partisans the Republican Postmasters yearn to be continued. With the unprincipled spirit of the average Republican politician the organs want Republicans to enjoy the usufruct of the Democratic victory in November. They claimed that the ascendancy of a Democratic administration would be a disgrace to the Nation, yet the organs are quite anxious that Republicans may benefit by the disgrace. Their attitude is not honorable—not noble. Whipped in a fair fight they are nevertheless whining for the purse. Their exhibition is cowardly. It is not worthy the applause of even the "slugging" profession. Honor, even in the prize ring, exacts that the defeated bruiser shall yield gracefully the belt until such time, in another encounter, he may win it. For him to snarl at his successful antagonist is deemed disgraceful. But the organs do not rise to the prize-ring sentiment of honor. Though having "thrown up the sponge" they want the "stakes." This only illustrates the lack of principle or patriotism long charged against the Republican party. "What are we here for if not for the offices?" asked Flanagan, of Texas, in the Republican National Convention. Flanagan hit the nail squarely on the head. That he knew the spirit of the Republican party is illustrated by the organs to day when, under a Democratic administration, they are trying to hold on to the offices.

IMPURE WATER SUPPLIES.

The continued dispatches from Plymouth, Pa., indicating the frightful ravages of the typhoid fever, and it having been ascertained that this result has been brought about by polluted drinking water, it would seem obligatory upon people everywhere to look well to their water supplies. Human beings can not drink impure water and expect good health. Those who have been detailed to investigate the Plymouth scourge report that there is no exaggeration in the reports that we get from that town, and moreover, as already published, the scourge began with the use of polluted water. It became poisoned at the headwaters of the stream that supplies the city. It seems that a family, a year ago, living near where the river rises, were afflicted with typhoid fever.

The accumulations of the outhouses used by the family were washed into the river by late winter freshets, and these poisoned and permeated the water, which in due course wended its way to Plymouth, and was there used for drinking purposes by the inhabitants. The result is death and devastation. The problem is as simple as two and two make four. Given polluted water to drink—result, sickness and death. In some instances, the police surgeon who went from Philadelphia to Plymouth found four or five persons ill in one house, with three or four in one room, and in instances two or three dead persons in the same house. The only school house in the borough had been turned into a hospital. The surgeon heard of a case in which the father and mother were both down with the fever and were being nursed by a fourteen-year-old boy, who was also caring for a small babe. A doctor who also went to investigate the disease said that unless disinfectants are freely used the disease will spread and will not be wiped out this season. The purpose of this article is not to create needless alarm, but simply to impress upon our readers the absolute necessity of drinking nothing but the purest water. Filtered cistern water is said to be the healthiest. If the taste is unpleasant, or not easily acquired, then boil your well water if you have any doubts about its purity, and allow it to cool unless it is preferred warm. Drink pure water.

It is said that Hon. S. S. Cox, our new Minister to Turkey, positively refuses to substitute a capable or any sort of a Democrat for the present Secretary of Legation, simply because the Republican who now holds the position was "so very kind" to him during a visit to Constantinople. "He did me some favors," adds the Minister. If we remember correctly, we think that in the account which Mr. Cox gave at the time of his visit to Turkey that he was also very lavish in his praises of General Law Wallace, in return for kindnesses and courtesies extended him by the American Minister. Now, Mr. Cox should have hesitated about displacing such a courteous gentleman who did him so many favors. He might have promptly said to Mr. Cleveland: "Mr. President, you had better not disturb General Wallace. He was so very kind to me during my visit that I really hesitate about accepting the position." This would be entirely in line with the sentiment that prevents Mr. Cox from displacing the Under Secretary of the Legation. We understand that the position is worth $4,000 per annum. Is it possible that Mr. Cox can not find a Democrat who has been "kind" enough to him during his life, who would fill the position creditably and satisfactorily. Mr. Cox says if the Secretary has been an "offensive partisan," he will turn him out. It is not likely that he was "offensive." He had no chance to be. Wallace was home during the canvass in the role of an "offensive partisan," but the Secretary was probably at his post attending to the duties of his chief, who was in Indiana making speeches for Blaine.

PERSONALS.

ASSOCIATE JUDGE FIELD is devoting his leisure to writing the memoir of his life.

A widow in Wilton, Connecticut, says she never intends to marry again. She is 104.

The wife of Minister Phelps is amiable and accomplished and has a fortune of her own.

CLARENCE A. FREEMAN, the champion checker player of America, is twenty-six years old.

The poet Paul J. Hayne is six feet high and so his friends call him "the Longfellow of the South."

Mrs. JUDITH JACKSON, the only child of Stonewall Jackson, will be married June 3, to Mr. William E. Christian, a prominent merchant of Richmond, Va.

COLONEL MAPLESON says Nicolini has bladders on the brain. He wants some one to write an opera with a billiard match in it, so Nicolini can be kept on the stage.

Mrs. LUCY HAYES is said to serenely smile over the occasional newspaper sneers at her husband, which she considers of no account since she herself is the head of the house. Slanderers say that Mrs. Lucy is as much set in her ways as her favorite hens are.

At the Hotel Dronot recently, a state chair, which had belonged to Louis XV., was sold for $308. It was richly gilt and beautifully carved, and was surmounted by a small crown. It was formerly in the Abbey of Carville-sur-Rose, which was broken up and plundered during the revolution.

PROFESSOR VON ANGELI has returned to Vienna from Windsor, where he has been painting a life size portrait of Queen Victoria. The Queen usually sits in the forenoon. Princess Beatrice keeping her company. She appeared almost always in queenly attire, and during the sitting conversed with the artist and the Princess on all sorts of topics except politics.

DONALD G. MITCHELL, better known as Ike M'riel, is said to be much pleased with the professorship of belles-lettres, which he has held for a year past at Yale College. The students regard him as an amiable and delightful instructor, and many of them have read his "Dream-Life" and "Reveries of a Bachelor" with an interest approaching enthusiasm. He studied law forty years ago, but never practiced, and afterwards attempted daily journalism, but did not find it to his liking.

which was presented to Lady Ruthven by Sir Walter.

QUEEN MARGUERITE of Italy, converses fluently in the language of almost every stranger who visits the Italian court.

NOTES FROM ABROAD.

GENOVA, Delleille, Leo Delleille, Clermont-Gannead, and Charles Garnier are members of the new Sphenophogone Club of Paris. A sphenophogone is a man who wears a Vandyke or pointed beard.

SOME interesting autographs were recently sold at auction in London. The original autograph copy of Lord Byron's "Fare Thee Well" and "If Forever" fetched $85; the original of Burns' "Jam O'Shanter" and "Lament of Mary, Queen of Scots" together fetched $700; one of Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son, $15; thirteen letters of Dean Swift, from $39 to $85 each, and one of Charles Lamb, from Paris, $65.

The Countess Cambaceres, who died recently, was a daughter of Marshal Davoust. One of her grandchildren is the Duchess of Feltre, who was quite young during the war of 1870. A Prussian General was quartered at the chateau of Montigobert. He said to the young girl: "I have a little daughter of your age, and I am going to write to her. What shall I say for you?" Tell her, General, that I could have done very well without the acquaintance of her father."

At the Academy of Medicine in Ireland a description was recently given of a lioness in the Zoological Gardens who was found one morning to have eaten off six inches of her tail. In two more meals she had completely disposed of that appendage, and had commenced on her forepaws. The animal was destroyed "for fear she would eat herself up." The cause of the trouble was thought to be hysteria of a kind similar to that which causes women to bite their nails.

The Prefecture of Marseilles has issued a voluminous report on last year's cholera visitation, profusely illustrated with maps and plans. The leading physicians, taking up different departments of the subject, describe the introduction and progress of the epidemic, the measures adopted for withstanding it, and the result obtained. The aggregate number of deaths was 1,235 in July, 380 in August, 114 in September, and 45 in October, the total being 1,772. In 1836 there were 1,104; in 1855, 1,863; in 1855, 1,410; in 1854, 3,069; in 1849, 2,252; in 1837, 1,520; in 1835, 2,576; and in 1834, 860. It should be borne in mind that the population has increased.

If you ask what I think of Russia, writes a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, I will say that he is a man of great powers, singular fascination, and strong eloquence. He was meant for big things, but he has become degraded. Noble ambitions are dead in him; alcohol has sapped his will and ruined his nerve. He is a wreck of a remarkable man, and since his nature demands some strong motive for action he has given himself over entirely to drink and avarice. The stupid, freckled Irishmen whom I saw sneaking in with reports love him like simulators as they are; but he feels his own degradation bitterly, and he solaces himself with collecting coins. I saw his fine house property, and I was sorry to think a man, originally a sort of leader, should have sunk into a cowardly, drunken plunderer of the poor.

William Wright, the man charged with the Harrodsburg express robbery and the assault on Davis and Webber, tells the following story in relation to his movements about the time the robbery was committed: I went down Tuesday morning, the day before the robbery, to Terre Haute, buying a ticket at Clear Creek, where I also weighed myself, and, starting at 10 o'clock, arrived at Terre Haute at 11 o'clock. I went on immediately to Terre Haute over the Vandalia, arriving about 1 o'clock at night, stayed with Uncle James Jason, two and a half miles south of the city, and next day walked about uncle's farm till 10 o'clock, then went to Terre Haute, wrote a letter to my wife or rather had uncle write it, and then I stayed at a house all night, getting out about dark; think the man's name is Graves, though not certain. I remember the man got supper; it was not where I stayed all night; next morning I had an early breakfast and started south peddling; first heard of the robbery Sunday; uncle told me Monday; I went to town and got more notions and was in the country Wednesday night; in Clay City I heard they wanted a man by the name of Wright for the express robbery and thought it was my brother; told no one my name at Clay City or any other time I was out peddling; went to Jason's Thursday; planted corn till Saturday night, when uncle told me I had better go to town and straighten up the suspicion against me; went in Sunday and gave self up, and here I am anxious to see Webber for I know he will liberate me. I am not the man who committed the deed."

Meeting of the Twenty-sixth Annual Convention of the United States and Canada.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 13.—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the Y. M. C. A. of the United States and Canada met in the Baptist Church, Atlanta, this morning. Mr. R. R. McBurney, of New York, called the convention to order. Mr. George Rodgers, of Milwaukee, was elected temporary President, and Major Joseph Hardie, of Selma, Ala., was subsequently elected permanent President, and Geo. C. Cohered, Secretary. The Vice Presidents are C. S. L. Peters, of St. Louis; B. Shaw, of Ohio; Woods White, of Atlanta; Mr. Faust, of Oregon; Dr. White, of Boston, and Robert Henderson, of Canada. On taking the Chair Major Hardie made a brief and earnest address. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Judge Jackson, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; Rev. Dr. Barnett, of the Presbyterian Church, to which Hon. Cephas Brainard, Chairman of the International Committee, responded. Mr. Kenneth Secretary of the London Association; Mr. Hildens, of the Berlin Association; Count Pinkelner, of Berlin, and Mr. Hadden, of London, were introduced and made brief addresses.

In the afternoon Mr. Braut presented the report of the International Committee, showing that 350 associations reported 115,000 members, 15,000 active members on command and nearly 4,000 Young Men's Bible Classes. The association owns $4,300,000 worth of property. The expenses of the committee for the year were $31,000. They employed eleven Secretaries. Eighteen new buildings have been constructed during the year. The report shows a remarkable growth in every department of the work. The work for college young men, railroad employes, and German and colored young men, has been emphasized during the year. Four hundred and twelve Secretaries and assistants are employed in the work.

In the evening Mr. John H. Elliott gave a Bible reading, after which Rev. Dr. Hawthorn introduced the Right Rev. M. S. Baldwin, Bishop of Huron, Canada, who gave a most interesting and instructive address upon the topic, "Is the Bible adapted to the young men of to-day, and if so, why?" The address was listened to with marked attention by the large audience.

About 400 delegates representing associations in the United States, Ontario and Europe are in attendance. Ten International Secretaries, most of the State Secretaries, and nearly all the General Secretaries are here.

SENTINEL SPECIALS.

Funeral of F. F. Hagadorn.

Special to the Sentinel.
 MUNCIE, Ind., May 13.—The funeral of F. F. Hagadorn, late Bridge Superintendent of the L. E. and Western Railway, took place at the Presbyterian Church in this city to-day, being conducted by the K. T. Commandery of Paxton, Ill., of which Mr. Hagadorn was a member, assisted by the Muncie Commandery. Rev. George A. Little preached the funeral discourse. The attendance was exceedingly large and the exercises most impressive. There were present many officers and employes of the L. E. and W. Road. Mr. Hagadorn was a brother-in-law of General Superintendent E. H. Waldron, of Lafayette. His death was caused by consumption, contracted while engaged in his duties on the road, being exposed, as he was, to all kinds of weather. The floral decorations to-day were elegant, and were presented by numerous friends, including officers and employes of the road.

Seymour Items.
 Special to the Sentinel.
 SEYMOUR, Ind., May 13.—Myron A. Raymond, a book peddler, was arrested last evening and examined before Justice Mills S. Reeves on the charge of forging a $5 contract on Mrs. Henry Ives, of Bloomington, and was remanded to Monroe County for trial. The proof against him is said to be positive.

The farmers are very busy in planting corn. The cool weather is seriously interfering with farm work.

Potato bugs are making their appearance in great numbers, and fears are expressed that they may destroy the growing potato crop.

Fleea From Justice.
 Special to the Sentinel.

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 13.—E. O. Bacon, a young man about thirty years of age, who is a clothes cleaner and dyer, was indicted by the Grand Jury, which is in session here, for the crime of rape on a little negro girl only eight years old. Bacon got wind of the warrant and skipped out a few minutes before the Sheriff went to his place of business, yesterday evening, to arrest him. He came here from Greensburg, Ind., on the 20th day of April. He claims to have a wife and son three years old at Auburn, DeKalb County, Ind. He is a small man about five feet four inches in height, has a long dark mustache, dark hair, cut short.

Jailed.
 Special to the Sentinel.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., May 13.—Thomas Dougherty, an old citizen, is now in jail, charged with stealing three head of cattle, the property of William S. Sherley. It is charged that he sold the cattle to Sanford Arms for $75. Mr. Arms lives near Indianapolis. The cattle have been recovered by the skill of Frank Lloyd. Mr. Arms is now here, and it is said that he acted very honorably in delivering up the cattle to Mr. Dougherty was tried several years ago on charge of having murdered a man by the name of Carter, but was acquitted.

Lodged in Jail.
 Special to the Sentinel.

TIPTON, Ind., May 13.—To-day Sheriff T. B. Bates went to Buena Vista and arrested Walter J. Duell, whom he brought in custody to this city, charged with having about three months ago forged a check for $500 at the Tipton County Bank with the signature of John T. Hunter upon it. His bond was fixed at $2,000, and on failure to give bail was lodged in jail.

No Near and Yet So Far.
 Special to the Sentinel.

SHILLYVILLE, Ind., May 13.—The commissioners appointed by Judge Hord to recount the votes cast for Marshal at the late city election completed their work at noon to-day. The result was: James Bassett, Republican, 510; Ben W. Laws, Democrat, 559. Bassett's majority on the original count was three.

GENERAL GRANT.

He Is Not Feeling So Well.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Between 10 and 11 o'clock last night a hyperdermic injection, containing five drops of morphia, was administered to General Grant. This quantity of opiate usually neutralizes the constant pain in the throat so that the patient is able to sleep. This was not the result last night. The General during the day had talked too much with visitors; the air during his noonday ride was close; his throat had swollen a little, and the pain was so increased that the opiate did not have the desired result. The General found no sleep until 3 o'clock this morning. At that hour he slept, and continued to do so, with breaks of wakefulness, until between 8 and 9 this morning. At 9 o'clock he awoke and was dressed. The increased swelling of the throat is to-day noticeable, and in the words of Colonel Fred Grant, "Father is not so well this morning as he was yesterday morning."

Wool Growers' Association—Miners Induced to Quit.

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—A meeting at the Cotton Exchange to-day completed arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the National Wool Growers' Association, which meets here on the 27th inst. The hall of the Cotton Exchange was tendered for the convention.

A committee of coal miners from S.anton, Ill., arrived in Bellevue to-day and induced the men in several of the mines in the Bellevue district, who commenced work again several days ago, to quit.

Marriage of an Editor.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 13.—Frank L. Lynch, managing editor of the Leavenworth Standard, and Miss Birdie Blair, daughter of General O. W. Blair, were married here to-day. United States Senator Ingalls, Morrison, of the Kansas City Times, Wallace Pratt, W. C. Perry and other notable were present.

DIAMOND SPORT.

The Indianapolis Club Wins the Fourth of the Kansas City Series.

The Lucas Team Scores a Victory at Providence—Buffalo Wins at Boston—Milwaukee Defeats Cleveland—Other Games.

Special to the Sentinel.

KANSAS CITY, May 13.—The Indianapolis Club did not use the stick as freely as the Kansas City to-day, but played a superior game in the field and easily won the game. They made nearly all their runs on the home team's errors. Following is the score by innings:

Kansas City..... 2 3 0 0 2 3 0 1 1-12
 Indianapolis..... 3 0 0 7 0 0 7 0 7-37
 Base Hits—Kansas City, 13; Indianapolis, 3.
 Errors—Kansas City, 13; Indianapolis, 6.

Another Game for the Lucas Nine.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 13.—The St. Louis club met the Providence Greys to-day for the first time this season, and defeated them after a contest in which the remarkable features were the splendid work of Sweeney and Brodery and the miserable fielding of the home team. Sweeney was loudly applauded when he made his appearance on the field, and throughout the game he was encouraged at every good play by demonstrations of approval. On the other hand, Brodery was not in good form, and the visitors batted him quite easily and effectively. Providence could do little with Sweeney's delivery, and their five safe hits were scattering and unproductive. In the seventh inning the Greys were rattled, and by errors of Brodery, with Lewis' single, gave the visitors four runs. It was decidedly an off-day for the champions. Three thousand people witnessed the game. Score:

Providence..... 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 0-2
 St. Louis..... 1 0 0 0 1 0 4 1 1-3

At Boston.

BOSTON, May 13.—The Buffalo League Club, in their first championship game this season, easily defeated the home team to-day. In the first two innings the visitors were blanked, but in the third Gavin hit for a base, coming home on Richardson's home run over the left field fence; single by Brouthers and McCauley, a two-bagger by Crowley and an error by Bredock gave them four runs; two runs were earned. They were then disposed of in fine form until the ninth inning, when, after two men had been put out, on a double of Force's hit by Wise, a double by Gavin, a single by Manning, Brouthers' drive for two bases, and Hise's wild throw, three more runs were scored. The attendance numbered 1,500 persons. The score:

Boston..... 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1-1
 Buffalo..... 0 0 4 0 0 0 0 3-7

Finished Under Protest.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—The second game of the Pittsburgh-Brooklyn series was won by the latter club this afternoon, in the presence of 2,000 spectators. In the eighth inning, with the home nine at the bat and the bases full, Umpire Valentine declared the side out because O'Day refused to force the men off their bases by running on three strikes. Captain Brown claimed this decision was unjust, and the game was finished under protest. President McKnight, who was present, it is understood suspects Brown, and it is probable the game will not be counted.

Pittsburgh..... 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0-2
 Brooklyn..... 3 0 1 0 2 0 0 0-6

The Browns Batted Hard.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 13.—By heavy batting and Maculini's errors, the Browns scored another easy victory of the Baltimore to-day in the presence of only about 900 people. Barkley retired with a split finger in the third inning, and Robinson took his place. In the eighth inning Burns went to left field, and Summers pitched the remainder of the game. Burns' home was made on a tremendous drive to the fence seats.

St. Louis..... 0 1 0 0 0 1 3 0-11

Chicago Wins at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—About 1,500 people witnessed the Chicago Club defeat the Philadelphia to-day. Rain during the day was the cause of the small attendance, a great crowd having been expected in consequence of the success of the home club for the past week. Score:

Chicago..... 0 0 1 3 1 3 0 1-13
 Philadelphia..... 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0-13

A Picnic for Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., May 13.—To-day's game was a veritable slugging match with the home club in the lead. Fennelly made two home runs, one to left field, and the other to right. McPhee and Nelson did some pretty fielding. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

Cincinnati..... 3 0 0 3 0 4 4 0-14
 Cincinnati..... 1 2 0 0 0 0 1 2-10

A Victory for Memphis.
